Practical Work

It is important that you keep up your own art practice. You are now doing it because of a love for art not just for an exam. Here are some guidelines:

- Do 15 minutes of drawing from life every day. This could follow a theme or be quite random but look at the real object, not a photograph.
 - Create a visual diary of your 'lockdown experience'.
 - Create a sketchbook of drawings of the same subject, view or object. Each drawing could be in a different media or different view. You will become very familiar with the subject and with each drawing you will learn something new.
 - Do a series of quick sketches of a person or animal without asking/expecting them to keep still.
 - Create a sketchbook of self-portrait studies (some artists spend a lifetime doing this).
 - Complete a piece of work based on your exam project or a development from any of the other projects you followed
